DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

3. Claims 7-9, and 11-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mizuhara et al (US 5,364,010), and further in view of Chaim et al ("Joining of Alumina ceramics using nanocrystalline tape cast Interlayer").

Mizuhara et al disclose the method of joining two objects made up of certain sized particles comprising of compounds having particle size smaller than certain sized particles applying the joining compound, wherein joint compound contains metal, to opposing surfaces of the objects to be joined together, heating the joint (col. 7, lines 3-30); heating the joint to a temperature below the melting point of the lowest melting point constituent of the construct wherein the temperature of the lowest point constituent of the construct is T_m and heating temperature is $0.5T_m$ to $0.7 T_m$ (col. 2, lines 24-26).

Mizuhara et al fail to teach applying a pressure of 500 to 45,000 psi to the objects, multiphase object, while the joint compound is in the opposing surface, and that the joint compound is applied to a thickness that is at least 5 times the dimension of the largest particles contains in the joint compound.

However, Chaim et al disclose the method of joining two ceramic parts, inherently having multiphase, and that the thickness of the interlayer is between 35 to 50 microns, wherein the larger grain size is 2 to 10 microns, resulting in a thickness at least 5 times the dimension of the largest particles, and that the pressure applied is 55Mpa (page 1726). Chaim et al disclose the above differences for the purpose of having a crack free microstructure at the joint.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time applicant's invention was made to provide pressures between 500 and 45,000 psi and thickness at least 5 times the dimension of the largest particle as taught by Chaim et al, in Mizuhara et al in order to achieve crack free microstructure at the joint.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 7-9 and 11-13 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
